MUCH DOG MEAT USED

Thousands of Founds Are Used by Foverty-Stricken Families.

[Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.]
Berlin, September 28.—The Frankfort Gazette calls attention to the fact that 69,400 metric pounds of dog meat were killed in Saxony slaughter houses in the year 1911. This was only a small proportion of the dogs butchered, as the majority were killed privately. The paper adds: "Dog meat is eaten only in the big cities, but in the agricultural districts cats are also eaten more than formerly. With the present famine prices everything that is meat goes into the kettles of poor families."

dog meat has increased enormously in Dresden, but the per capita consumption of meat is decreasing and was 400 grammes less in July, 1912, than in the same month of 1911. The consumption of beer is also falling off. Chicago live stock reports just arrived predict a price of 11 cents a pound for heef cattle on the hoof. Beef cattle in the Berlin stock yards

(Special to The Times Dispatch.)

Philadelphia, September 28.—When directors of the Philadelphia Trust Company meet on Monday they will elect as the president of that institution, one of the oldest and most conservative in the city. Thomas S. Gates, who is not yet thirty-eight years old. Mr. Gates's rapid rise in the world of inance is due to his own efforts. He was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1893, took a course of law at the same college, and was admitted to the bar in 1897. He entered the law offices of John G. Johnson, but after two years he entered the banking business, and was elected trust officer of the bank. Mr. Gates will be the youngest bank president of the city, if not one of the youngest in the country.

An Unjust Criticism by our teasing, but is very stubborn. She says that if she were to be sick in the same way again she would certainly get Peruna and take it, alcohol or no alcohol. So you see if people will persist in such foolishness there ought to be a law to prevent them."

Alcohol in Pe-ru-na---

I ventured to interpose a question.
"You say the doctors could not cure her, and yet you say Peruna did care her.
What difference does it make to you whether it was alcohol or some other drug that effected the cure?"

"Well, I don't know that it makes any difference, but it is deceiving the people to give them alcohol, even though it does cure them," he said.

I replied, "Why, I cannot exactly understand that. Alcohol is a drug, the same as quinine or morphin. If alcohol eures certain diseases, where is the deception? I understand that the Peruna people print on the label of each bottle the per cent of alcohol contained in Peruna.
Each patient may read it, if he pleases.
I cannot see where there is any deception."

S. B. HARTMAN, M. D.

Having a little business in one of the Federal offices of the city, after it was finished I fell in conversation with the official in charge concerning Peruna. I mention his business to show that the conversation was conducted with a man of more than ordinary intelligence, being an employe of the government who had passed through several civil service examinations. He said to me, not knowing who I was:

"I think a great deal of this patent medicine business ought to be stopped. Especially such remedies as Peruna. Peruna, as you know, is a estimulant and contains eighteen or twenty per cent. of alcohol. People take it without knowing what it is, and such remedies ought to be prohibited by law. My own mother took Peruna once. She had a cough, night sweats, was growing emaciated and wask. Several doctors examined her. The opinion was expressed several times that she was going into consumption. One thought it was chronic bronchitis. At any rate, it was chronic bronchitis. At any rate, it would not take Peruna," he persisted. "Now, I was sick, I had a stomach disease. A violent pain, that would ome on about an hour or two altonach disease. A violent pain, that would ome on about an hour or two altonach, it was also constipated. I consulted several doctors in our city about my sell. I went to see a prominent specialist in New York City, paid out a great deal of money, but no help. One great deal of money, but no help. One was a retired physician with whom I was a retired physician with whom I was a trivil and been acquainted. He said to me, "My friend, if you want to get well I would advise you to take a glass of lager beer before each meal. It grew worse and worse. I was also constipated. I consulted several doctors in our city about an hour or two allowed several doctors in our city about an hour or two also deserved doctors in our city about an hour or two also doctors in our city about an hour or two also deserved doctors in our city about an hour or two also deserved doctors in our city abo who I was:

My own mother took Peruna once. She had a cough, night sweats, was growing emaciated and weak. Several doctors examined her. The opinion was expressed several times that she was going into consumption. One thought it was chronic bronchitis. At any rate, her condition was quite serious. She was unable to get any relief from the doctors she consulted, although she took their medicines faithfully for nearly a year. Some one told her about Peruna, and against my wish and against the wishes of our family, she began taking it. At once she improved, and in less than six months she apparently was well. We did all we could to discourage her in taking Peruna, but she persisted. It finally came out in the magazines that Peruna contained alcohol. Then we knew at once what it was that benefited my mother—it was simply the alcohol that Peruna contained. We had the laugh on mother. We have not ceased to make fun of her yet about her being cured with a dilution of alcohol. She seems to be embarrassed

"Yes."

"But you objected to your mother's taking alcohol in the Peruna, and yet she was taking far less alcohol than you were. As I understand it, the dose of Peruna is one tablespoonful. Supposing it to be twenty per cent alcohol, there would be in each dose one-fifth of a tablespoonful of alcohol, which would be about half a teaspoonful, while you were taking at least four teaspoonfuls of alcohol in your bottle of beer. And yet you objected to your mother's taking Peruna on the ground that the Peruna contains alcohol. In my opinion it was the alcohol that cured both of you. Your mother evidently was cured of a very serious ailment. Peruna contains alcohol. It was undoubtedly the alcohol that cured her, or at least helped to. The other ingredients of Peruna might have assisted, no doubt did. In your case it was the alcohol in the beer that cured you of the stomach difficulty. Peruna has cured thousands of such cases."

"Well, I declare," he replied, "I never thought of it in that way before. There has been so much said about alcohol being poisonous that I suppose my mind has been prejudiced against it. But if as you say there is also alcohol in beer, the same kind of alcohol as is used in Peruna, I cannot see where the difference is my-self."

cannot see where the difference is myself."

"Well," I replied, "you have been doing,
exactly what the average man and woman is doing. You have allowed your mind to become prejudiced against Peruna on account of its containing alcohol. Without stopping to look into the matter at allyou have assumed that there is something terribly disreputable about remedies containing alcohol. The fact is, however, that most all fluid medicines, whether prescribed by a doctor or put up as a patent medicine, contain a certain amount of alcohol. It was alcohol that cured
your mother. It was alcohol that cured
your mother. It was alcohol that cured
your mother. It was alcohol in some form or other is making more cures than all other drugs combined. This is not saying, however, that Peruna contains only alcohol, for it does contain excellent remedies besides alcohol. But I do contend that the alcohol in Peruna is not only not harmful to those who take it, but if taken in the doses prescribed on the bottle
it will do a great deal of good and there is not the slightest danger of forming a drug habit."

Peruna is for sale at all drug stores.
